NANDI SIBANYONI

*Executive Head,
Safety and Sustainable Development*

Kumba Iron Ore

Nandi Sibanyoni, the Executive Head for Safety and Sustainable Development at Kumba Iron Ore, is tasked with overseeing and developing systems that ensure that safety is integrated in all operations.

The ultimate goal for Nandi is to create an environment in which it is impossible for people to get hurt. To achieve that goal, Nandi and her team focused on risk reduction interventions and visible leadership on site, which has made a big difference.

Although she is humbled by her Safety Hero nomination, Nandi extends the credit to her colleagues and service partners who are unconditional about safety.

Her love for the outdoors inspired Nandi to become an environmentalist, which introduced her to the mining industry where she developed a love for safety. And if she could do it all over again, she would once again, choose a career in mining.
